7

Dust Control & Soil Stabilization

RJ Legacy understand the operational and environmental pressures faced by mining companies in the Democratic Republic of Congo. Dust emissions and unstable soil not only endanger workers and equipment but also hinder compliance with safety and environmental standards.

That's why we proudly offer Dust Control & Soil Stabilization services in partnership with Bind-X, a global leader in biological surface treatment technologies. Together, we provide bio-based, non-toxic, and long-lasting solutions that outperform conventional methods like water spraying, salts, or synthetic polymers.

Dust Control

Dust is a serious issue in mining areas — affecting air quality, worker safety, and community relations. Traditional methods such as constant watering or chemical applications are short-lived, water-intensive, and often harmful to the environment.

Our dust control solution, powered by Bind-X's patented biotechnology, forms a protective crust over exposed surfaces. This crust prevents dust from lifting, even under heavy traffic and dry conditions.

Key Benefits

- Up to 70% reduction in dust emissions
- Non-toxic and safe for workers and the environment
- Greatly reduces reliance on water trucks
- Improves health & safety for personnel and nearby communities
- Enhances compliance with ESG and regulatory requirements

Soil Stabilization

Unstable ground conditions are a common challenge in mining operations, particularly in high-traffic areas such as haul roads, access routes, and construction zones. Poor soil integrity leads to rapid surface degradation, resulting in slower vehicle movement, increased wear and tear on equipment, and frequent maintenance interventions—all of which impact operational efficiency and increase costs.

To address this, RJ Legacy—through its partnership with Bind-X—offers an advanced soil stabilization solution powered by bio-geochemical technology. This approach uses naturally occurring soil bacteria and mineral binders to solidify loose soil particles and create a stable, compact surface. The process mimics natural mineral-binding reactions found in the environment, but accelerates and controls them for consistent results across the site.

Key Benefits

- Increases road durability and reduces erosion
- Minimizes the need for frequent regrading or rework
- Works in both dry and wet conditions
- Long-lasting and site-specific formulations
- Boosts vehicle efficiency and lowers maintenance

Application Areas

- Haul roads with heavy-duty traffic
- Rehabilitated or erosion-prone zones
- Construction and support infrastructure zones

Our office cleaning services are designed to accommodate both daily maintenance and specialized deep-cleaning needs, ensuring every corner of your workplace is spotless, sanitized, and welcoming.

Industrial Facility Cleaning

We provides specialized industrial cleaning services designed to meet the unique challenges of industrial environments, where dust, grease, residues, and hazardous materials can accumulate quickly and affect both worker safety and equipment performance.

We understand that industrial sites demand more than basic cleaning—they require a strategic, safety-focused approach that supports compliance, cleanliness, and uninterrupted operations.

We offers personalized residential cleaning services designed to meet the diverse needs of homeowners, tenants, and property managers. Whether it's a one-time deep clean or a recurring maintenance schedule, our professional team is equipped to handle a variety of home types—from compact city apartments to large private residences.
